THE DISPENSARY.

How the Battle Was Fought and Won in the Senate.

From this morning's News & Observer we take the following account of the passage of the Greensboro dispensary bill through the senate:

The Greensboro dispensary bill was the special order for 1 o'clock and immediately when it was taken up Senator Bryan offered an amendment providing that the question of dispensary or no dispensary be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors.

Senator Hairston, who had charge of the minority report on the bill, gave the amendment right of way, the issue being whether the dispensary should be established outright or only by a special election for it.

Senator Wilson spoke first and did not conceal that he was poorly pleased that there should be an attempt to amend the bill contrary to the wishes of the representatives of Guilford county.

Senator Wilson said it was a matter that effected his people, the people he was sent to represent. It was purely a local measure and he was responsible to his people. The question had already been submitted to a vote of the people. The negroes held the balance of power in Greensboro. The senator from Craven did not wish the negro to rule in Newbern, but was willing to give them an opportunity to rule in Greensboro. People had been induced by outsiders to come on the floor and declare that the people he represented did not want the dispensary. He thought he was advised as to what they wanted.

Senator Campbell denied that a majority of the white voters of Greensboro were in favor of the dispensary.

Senator Lindsay said that all the representatives of Guilford county and all the senators living near Greensboro favored the dispensary. Senator Justice said the senator from Greensboro had made an honest, earnest effort to ascertain the wishes of his people. He had declined to advocate the bill until the people had spoken in a primary. The primary was held and was overwhelmingly in favor of the dispensary. The negroes in Greensboro held the balance of power and their vote would control on a high moral question. He stood with the good people of Greensboro.

Senator Bryan said the negroes would not control under the new election law. The question was not purely local because it established a precedent of allowing a minority to dictate legislation.

Senator Glenn said if the representatives of the county were divided there would be some excuse for interfering; but they all favored the bill. Greensboro was in a largely Quaker county; the people favored prohibition. It was the grand centre of female education in the state, the place where the future mothers of North Carolina were being trained. The dispensary deprived no man of his rights. Every man could drink to his heart's content but it put an end to treating. It put an end also to drinking after sundown, the greatest curse of the country. It was said that the passage of the bill would hurt the Democratic party. If the Democratic party had to stand upon such grounds then let it be swept away. There were 1,700 petitioners for the dispensary and only forty against it.

Senator Hairston asked if part of the petitioners were not negroes.

Senator Glenn replied that if so it showed that some negroes were rising to a higher moral plane. The representatives of Guilford would be untrue to their obligations if they failed to support the bill. "Who favors the bill?" he exclaimed. "The good people of Greensboro. Who oppose it? A man who a few years ago came from the North and settled outside of Greensboro. The citizens voted a tax to build an avenue out to his property. Now no liquor is allowed to be sold about his home, but he wishes to have it sold near the homes of other people.

Senator Glenn declared that he had been warned not to favor the dispensary as it would injure his chances of political preferment. Such should not deter him. He would cast his ballot for the dispensary regardless of consequences to himself.

Senator Franks said there could be no morality about legalizing the sale of liquor. He preferred the bar room to the dispensary.

Senator Daniels had doubted the propriety of bringing in bills of the dispensary sort. He proposed to vote for the bill because the senator from Guilford assured him that the people wanted it.

Senator Brown said the opposition had an opportunity to express their sentiments at the polls and had failed to do so. Now they should not open their mouths against it. He believed the dispensary was the solution of the liquor question. He would vote on the moral side of every question as he saw it.

Senator Smith said since the sentiment of the people of Greensboro was for the dispensary he should support it. The election could not be held under the new election law because it did not go into effect until just before the next general election.

Senator Cooley said he would support the bill because the people wanted it. But hereafter he wanted it understood that he would oppose any dispensary bill that came up. It was no time for every little village to be stirring up the whiskey question.

Senator Hicks said the dispensary put an end to mixing drinks.

Senator Justice said there were two sides of the question of harm from agitation. It was dangerous to leave a question festering in a community.

A roll call was ordered on the amendment and several senators explained their votes.

Senator Fields said he believed the liquor traffic did more harm than any other one thing. He was for the bill.

Senator Ward said he had found the senator from Guilford entirely trustworthy, he therefore voted against the amendment.

The roll call on the amendment showed 14 "ayes" and 29 "noes."

The vote on the bill was taken and it passed without further opposition.

AGUINALDO'S MANIFESTO.

Laments Hostilities, Which He Tried To Avoid.

"HUMILIATING CONCESSIONS"

"Corrupt Spanish Dominion Preferable to Odious American Domination."—Manila Incendaries.

By Cable to the Telegram.

Hong Kong, Feb. 22—Aguinaldo has issued a manifesto, and accepted the situation caused by "the unexpected provocation of the Americans."

While lamenting the hostilities, which he says he tried to avoid by every means in his power, making humiliating concessions and tolerating outrages by the army of occupation against the people of Manila," he adds that he is prepared to sacrifice everything to maintain his intregrity and the national honor.

He further alleges that the country is unanimous in his support and the people will perish rather than accept the odious American domination to which "even the corrupt Spanish dominion is preferable."

The Philippine commission is considered a farce, Otis, Denby, Dewey and Secretary Harder being classed as pronounced annexationists, later being charged with having maliciously defamed the Filipinos newspapers and being especially obnoxious to the Filipinos government

Finally, Aguinaldo "wishes to proclaim to the world officially and dispel the false rumors that Germany or any other power had rendered assistance, moral or national, to the Filipinos, nor have the Filipinos solicited aid."

TRIED TO BURN MANILA.

Manila, Feb. 22—Eighty houses were burned in an attempt to destroy the place, native men disguised as women being the incendiaries. When they arrived at the building marked as the starting point they told the inmates what was intended, started a blaze and departed without molestation, laughing and jeering at the unfortunate householders. The wind, however, spoiled their plans, the flames being fanned toward the district occupied by rebel sympathizers.

Hustlers They Are.

We have before mentioned the hustling qualities of G. T. Kearsley & Co., real estate and financial agents, of this city. Their latest stroke of enterprise, which has come to our notice, is a map printed on the back of their letter paper showing the position of Greensboro with relation to other cities. The map embraces that part of the United States from New York to Chicago, then south by St. Louis and Memphis to New Orleans and Key West, thence north along the Atlantic coast to New York. Among all the cities embraced in this territory Greensboro shows up with railroad advantages and location equal to any of them.

Contract for Plumbing.

The Odell Hardware Company have contracted with Messrs. Wharton & McAlister to do a part of the plumbing in the latter's new buildings on East Market street. The Odell Company's contract calls for $3,725. Mr. Wharton says that this will not near complete the work, none of the gas plumbing being embraced in this contract.

Work on the building was resumed yesterday and with good weather it will soon be ready for the plumbers.

Something Original.

The following was composed by by a Greensboro boy, and is to be sung to the tune, "She Was Bred in Old Kentucky:

She was bread in old Kentucky,
She was pie in New Orleans,
She was corn beef in Chicago,
And in Boston was baked beans,
In New York she was plain old corn,
In Philadelphia she was tea;
In Milwaukee she was lager beer;
In Greensboro—Dispensary.

THE END OF THE FIGHT.

Sixty-five of the City's Best Men at Work in Raleigh.

When the sun goes down today it is probable that the Greensboro dispensary question will have been settled, it will be known which side has won the hardfought battle, though as the matter comes up before the committee at 3 o'clock this afternoon, it will probably be too late to get anything for publication today.

The end of the battle will be exciting. Both sides are using desperate methods to win on the last point. The opposition has been making a hard fight in Raleigh and sixty-five of Greensboro's representative business and professional men left for Raleigh this morning, and will employ every honorable means to secure the dispensary. MASON CHALLENGED BUTLER

To Name One Prominent Lawyer Opposed to Ewart.

CHALLENGE IS YET UNANSWERED

N. C. Democrats Are Not Unanimous in Supporting Butler in His Opposition to Ewart.

Special to The Telegram.

Washington, Feb. 22 — Senator Mason, of Illinois, who is a supporter of Judge Ewart in his fight for confirmation, which is now pending in the United States senate, is of the opinion that provided a vote could be reached that Ewart would be confirmed by a small majority. In spite of the claims made by Senator Butler, Mr. Mason says that his own poll of the senate, if he is not misled, shows that a majority of the senate will vote, if permitted to do so, for confirmation. Senator Butler's course in declining to accede to a request for unanimous consent to take a vote looks as if there might be something in Senator Mason's claims. Senator Mason in the course of Senator Butler's speech in the senate the other day, interrupted the North Carolina senator, and challenged him to name a single lawyer of repute in North Carolina who is opposed to Judge Ewart's confirmation. Whether Senator Butler could or could not accept this challenge, the fact remains that the invitation of the Illinois senator thus far has gone unanswered, and the name of a lawyer opposed to confirmation has not yet been given by Senator Butler.

From conversations with North Carolina democrats, it is evident that they are not unanimous in siding with Senator Butler in his opposition to Judge Ewart's confirmation. Judge Ewart has many friends among North Carolina democrats, and many of the latter say that much of the opposition, if not the whole of it, so far as Senator Butler is concerned, is for political purposes, and they can see no reason, after Butler has done all in his power to disrupt and disorganize the democracy of the state, why they should now help him out by opposing the confirmation of Judge Ewart, who has the confidence of the president and the department of justice.

Senator Butler, of North Carolina, has introduced a bill providing for the erection of a public building at Elizabeth City, N. C.

Senator Pritchard has introduced a bill granting a pension to Louise D. Smith, of North Carolina, which has been referred to the committee on pensions.

Representative Fowler, of North Carolina, has introduced a bill in the house authorizing the secretary of the treasury to defray the expenses of the contestant in the contest entitled Koonce vs. Grady. The bill was referred to the committee on claims.

Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana, will call up in the house on Thursday the contested election case of Brown against Swanson. The democrats will again raise the question of consideration, and it is said that quite a number of republicans will absent themselves for the purpose of enabling the democrats to get a majority to vote down consideration. Representative Swanson is very popular with all parties, and no doubt is felt as to his retaining his seat in the house.

The comptroller of the currency has announced officially the following changes in officers of national banks of North Carolina: The National Bank of Newbern, no vice-president; the Blue Ridge National Bank of Asheville, E. Sluder, assistant cashier.

Among the ushers at the convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution are Misses Campbell and Ramsey, of North Carolina. The ushers are all young ladies selected from the thirteen original states. The convention is largely attended, three delegates from North Carolina being in attendance.

Star service has been changed in North Carolina as follows: Glover by Finch to Springhope, nine and one half miles and back, six times a week, by a schedule not to exceed three hours running time each way, from March 20th to June 30th, 1900.

Frank A. Liddell, locomotive engineer, crazed by grip, yesterday, at Perry, Iowa, killed his wife with a cleaver.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by C. E. Holton.

COURT CONFIRMS THE SALE.

Receiver Fries Files His Report of Sale of the C. F. & Y. V.

Winston, N. C., Feb. 21—Mr. J. W. Fries, receiver, has filed his report with the court in session here, in the case entitled Congregration of United Brethern vs. North State Improvement Company. He says in December he sold to H. Walters, of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad all rolling stock belonging to the North State Company in Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad for $37,750. He asked the court for an order confirming the sale and for a declaration of a dividend of seventeen per cent. to be paid upon the debts of the company.

The order was granted by Judge Allen.

The Salem commissioners met today and decided to accept the proposition from the postoffice department for free delivery, begining July 1st.—Special to News and Observer.

NO MORE CONCESSIONS.

American Joint High Commissioners Will Give No Better Terms.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Without any purpose to start a flood of recriminations the American members of the joint high Canadian commission feel that they have not been to blame for the failure to reach an agreement, but they are justified in the statement that they have made concession after concession.

It is supposed that reasons of internal policy, founded on the belief that they would be in a better position before the session of the Parliament just beginning if able to assert that they had refused to sacrifice Canadian interests have animated Canadian members of the commission in their course. It is just possible that better results may attend a further conference of the joint body next summer, but while the officials here regret exceedingly the failure so far to reach an agreement it is positively stated that the American side has made its last concession and the Canadians cannot expect better terms hereafter than they have now refused.

"AWKWARD."

The opponents of the dispensary have had printed and placed in the hands of every member of the legislature a four-page circular setting forth some alleged reasons why they think the bill should not become a law. In one place the circular says:

"Neither the primary nor the petition showed a majority of the white voters in Greensboro as for the dispensary."

What strength was developed by either method against the dispensary?

In another place we find:

"The men who oppose this bill are placed in an awkward and almost helpless position and they are compelled to appeal to this legislature for a hearing."

Yes, failing utterly to develop any great amount of strength at home, no wonder they feel "awkward and almost helpless." This, however, does not warrant them in making misleading and unfair representations to the general assembly. Mr. Moses H. Cone, than whom there is no more energetic man or indefatigable worker said at the anti-dispensary meeting in the Benbow parlors: "We have no chance in the primary. I'll tell you, I never had harder work in my life than when I tried to get signers on our petitions." We presume this hard work led to the present scheme of paying canvassers ten cents a name for every name secured on an anti-dispensary petition. We are reliably informed that one man brought in a petition yesterday from the country around Summerfield with 100 and was paid the sum of ten dollars!

Then, again, the circular goes on to say a good deal about the sentiment of the people of Guilford county, outside of Greensboro, being against the dispensary. This is positively untrue, as any well informed man who lives in the country, will testify. It is a fact that many have signed the anti petitions by being led to believe that whiskey saloons would be forced out into the country. As soon as these are shown the facts they at once say let's have the dispensary.

Our friends will find it "awkward"—extremely so, to undertake the job of overriding and crushing down the will of the majority of any community of Tarheels in which they may choose to try it. It would be far more graceful to say to them: "I can't agree with you; but as a loyal and law-abiding man, I submit to the will of the majority."

We are glad that some one has taken up the suggestion made by The Telegram a few weeks ago with reference to arranging for a joint debate between Trinity and Davidson colleges to take place in Greensboro. In a communication a day or two ago Mr. O. S. Newlin brings the matter up and endorses what we have said and makes the further suggestion that Greensboro offer a cup to the winning side to be kept until won back by the other side. Let's get the cup. Make the colleges a proposition and get an annual debate between these two great institutions.

"Give me a liver regulator and I can regulate the world," said a genius. The druggist handed him a bottle of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. Howard Gardner.

Edward Ellingwood, of Bradford, Me., was found dead at his home, with a bullet hole in his head, and the house nearly consumed by fire.

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has lame back or weak kidneys, malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by using Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to liver and kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures constipation, headache, fainting spells, sleeplessness and melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c a bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

JACK AND HIS WILL.

A Special Act of the British Parliament Arranges That Matter.

Jack has the proud distinction of having had an act of parliament passed for the express purpose of deciding the way in which he must make his will, so that while all other Britons are lumped together in this matter under the wills act of 1838 sailors' testamentary documents are made under the naval wills act of 1866. The most important proviso of this act is that all wills made by sailors or marines must be witnessed and attested by the chaplain or some other officer if they are actually made on board ship, and this is somewhat curious.

If a sailor likes to make his will on shore, any one can witness it for him, but on board ship the case is different. Needless to say they almost all to a man choose the latter course, as they know that things will be straighter for bearing an officer's signature. If, however, supposing that the vessel was in action and a man was to be struck down who had not previously made a will, if he had to do so before he died, even if it were not attested by an officer, the admiralty has full power to act on the merits of the case and to dispense with that or any other formality that it was impossible to comply with. Another thing—a sailor shares with a soldier the privilege of when on active service being the only man who can dispense with a written will and make a verbal one.

In former times any one could make his will verbally if he so desired, but this, as may be supposed, opened the door to no end of fraud, and it was consequently repealed in the 1838 act, except in the case mentioned above. On the night before a ship or a regiment goes into action there is no more pathetic sight than to see the men, young and old, laboriously writing their wills in case tomorrow should be their last day in this world, and what with witnessing wills and making them on the forms issued by the authorities for those who cannot write—and this class has now almost entirely disappeared from both the navy and the army—the officers have a very busy time.—London Golden Penny.

THE FIREMAN'S LIFE.

He Cannot Always Finish His Toilet Before a Mirror.

"Of course everything about the fire department interests us always," said Mr. Glimby, "but there is one little thing in particular that I've seen I suppose hundreds of times that appeals to me more every time I see it, and that is the firemen getting into their coats as they go along. You see this among the men on trucks and on hose wagons. The men on the engine have to use their hands to hold on.

"It's a simple enough thing in general to see a man putting on his coat, but here he isn't standing up in his room before a mirror, but he's jumped out of bed and taken his coat under his arm and slid down a sliding pole and is completing his dressing sitting on top of a rack of ladders going through the street like mad, drawn by three great horses at one end, with a man down at the other end steering this outfit with a wheel. This sight never loses its novelty or its interest. You may see the same thing on a hose wagon.

"But what set me to speaking about this now was seeing a man on a fire patrol wagon, sitting on one of their long seats, facing outward, pulling up the tops of his high boots—red wagon, galloping horses, banging gong, men in fire hats and rubber coats, the whole blooming outfit on the dead jump and this man sitting on the side seat reaching down for the tops of those boots and straightening up with each one as he got it and swaying back a little as he pulled it up into place, just as a man would sit on the edge of his bed at home to put on his stockings and slippers and just as cool and comfortable."—New York Sun.

Geography For Women.

The introduction to Parkenton's "Modern Atlas," published in 1815, has a reference to "the sex" which ought to be very interesting to our modern college girl. The learned author says:

Geography is a study so universally instructive and pleasing that it has for nearly a century been taught even to females, whose pursuits are foreign from serious researches. In the trivial conversation of the social circle, in the daily avidity of the occurrences of the times, pregnant indeed above all others with rapid and important changes that affect the very existence of states and empires, geography has become a habitual resource to the elegant female, as wall as the profound philosopher.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine, and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs are surely cured by it. Call on C. E. Holton, druggist, and get a trial bottle free. Regular size 50 and $1. AN EXPENSIVE EXPERIMENT.

The Head Bookkeeper Finally Balances His Accounts.

A south side man who is a clerk in one of the leading banks on this side of the river was in a communicative mood last night. During a conversation about various things he took on a retrospective air and said, "There is nothing like the faithful discharge of one's duties, but it is sometimes an expensive experiment."

On being questioned as to the cause of the remark he replied: "Well, it reminds me of an experience I had while employed in a prominent Fourth avenue bank. I don't mind telling it to you. The head bookkeeper was a character in many ways. Method was his hobby. He had a way of doing everything, and he never varied from the rules he set down. Exactness in his accounts was a particular fad, and he spared no pains in carrying his ideas into effect. One afternoon in balancing our books it was found he was short 1 cent. We searched and searched, but when it came to the usual time for going home that cent was still missing.

"Do you think the head bookkeeper would allow us to go? Not much. Several of us had engagements we wanted to fulfill, but it made no difference. Supper time came, and we were no further ahead than when we started. Headed by the bookkeeper, we repaired to a neighboring restaurant for supper and then returned to work. After several hours the missing cent was found and the accounts balanced. But in figuring up it was discovered that in searching for the discrepancy of 1 cent the bank had incurred a bill for suppers to the amount of $7.50."—Detroit Free Press.

All American Children.

"Do you not have trouble with so many nationalities?" the spectator asked of the principal of a large school in the crowded tenement part of the city. "Oh, we hang the flag over the school platform," was the answer, "and have the regular exercise of saluting it, and the children become very patriotic indeed. They will not own, in most cases, that they are not Americans." "Yes," said the other teacher, "I often ask, 'Will the German children in the room stand up?' The Germans are more wedded to their fatherland, apparently, than other immigrants, for a few—though not by any means half—of them usually rise to this invitation. 'Now let the Italian children stand,' generally brings no response at all, though the school is crowded with them in my district. But when I end up by saying, 'Will the American children stand up?' the whole school rises joyfully."—Outlook.

As to Providence.

A country parson went to see a humble parishioner and, if possible, to comfort him some little under heavy trouble which had befallen. The pastor found the homely old man in his desolate cottage alone. He said many things, and added that he must try to take all affliction humbly, as appointed to us by Providence.

"Yes," said the good old man, who was imperfectly instructed in theology, "that's right enough, that is. But somehow that there old Providence have bin ag'in me all along, but I reckon as there's one above as'll put a stopper on he if he go too fur."—Baltimore News.

Wanted Them All.

Julia Ward Howe was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit. "It is time now," he said, pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course, beauty, grace"—

"Yes," said Mrs. Howe, sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want them all."

WINE OF CARDUI

HEALTHY OLD AGE.

LARUE, BENTON CO. ARK., Aug. 4.
I am 49 years old and have been suffering with Change of Life. I had flooding spells so bad that none thought I could live. My husband got me Wine of Cardui and it saved my life. I am like another person since taking it.
MRS. E. B. TOWNSEND.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

It is the devout wish of nearly all people to live to a ripe old age. None of us want to die young. This universal desire can be realized if care be taken of the health in early and middle life. A little precaution then will add many years to our existence. Death can be kept away a long time. Happy, healthy old age will be the lot of the woman who promptly corrects the ailments which afflict her sex. In youth, Wine of Cardui will take the female child safely over the dividing line between girlhood and womanhood. As a wife she needs it to help her through the trials of pregnancy and childbirth with as little discomfort as possible. At the Change of Life it will help her over the dangerous place that appears in her pathway between 40 and 50. Then will come many years of truly blissful existence. She will grow old slowly and gracefully. To the last she will preserve that charm and beauty which are always characteristic of perfectly healthy grandmothers. It is for women alone to decide whether they will be healthy or sick. The remedy for their sickness is close at hand.

Opening of the Social Season and Inauguration of the Magnificent

New York & Florida Limited Service

JANUARY 16, 1899.

The opening of the Florida season will be signalized this year as usual by the placing in service of the "New York and Florida Limited" between New York and St. Augustine, Fla. This is acknowledged to be the finest train in the world, in its appointments, luxury and detail of finish, and the first of these trains was constructed by the Pullman company for the use of the President of the United States on official tours.

"The New York and Florida Limited" leaves New York daily except Sunday at 11:50 a. m., via the pennsylvania Railroad, the Southern Railway, Florida Central & Peninsular R. R. and the Florida East Coast Railway, and reaches St. Augustine at 2.20 p. m. the following day, making the run, which exceeds 1,000 miles, in little more than twenty-four hours. No train has attracted so much attention, and its fame has been heralded wherever railroading is known. It is composed of Pullman compartment cars, each room being finished in different woods and supplied with private lavatory and toilet; Pullman drawing-room sleeping cars of the latest pattern and finish; a royal club car for the gentlemen; an observation car with a handsome drawing room at its rear opening on to a wide platform; a library car, and dining car, in which the service and the cuisine rank with the finest New York hotels. This "New York and Florida Limited" runs through solid to St. Augustine with the exception of one car which is detached at Columbia, S. C., and goes through to Aiken, which it reaches at 9:35 the next morning after leaving New York, and Augusta at 9:50. Brunswick and Jeckyl Island are conveniently reached by this train at 12 o'clock noon through the perfect connections afforded at Everett, Ga.

There are two other fine trains between New York ond Florida via "The Florida Short Line," one the "Washington and Southwestern Vestibule Limited," leaving New York at 4:20 p. m. daily, and the "United States Fast Mail," leaving New York at 12:05 midnight. The former train carries through Pullman drawing room sleeping cars between New York, Jacksonville and Tampa, and also offers Pullman sleeping car service between New York and Augusta, Ga., with connections for Aiken, Brunswick and Jekyl Island. The latter carries through drawing room sleeping cars between New York and Jacksonville, connecting with parlor car service to points on F. C. & P. R. R. and F. E. C. Ry. Dining cars are operated on all trains of the Southern Ry. "The Florida Short Line" in connection with the Florida East Coast Railway to Miami offers the most direct, quickest and delightful service to Nassau, Havana and Key West. For full information, reservations, etc., apply to J. L. Adams, G. E. A., F. C. & P. R. R., 353 Broadway, New York, or to A. S. Thweatt, E. P. A., Southern Ry, 271 Broadway, New York.

Of Interest to Parents

The little child of George White came near burning to death Saturday night. She was standing in front of the fire when her cotton dress ignited, and but for the quick heroic action of her mother, would have burned to death. AN ARTFUL GAME.

A Clever Swindle Which Was Successfully Worked In Paris.

Swindling is as monotonous as ethics or mathematics, and the various ways and means resorted to in the last decade of the nineteenth century for obtaining possession of other people's money were matters of common knowledge in the Egypt of Rameses the Great. But the Parisian police now affirm that a new departure has been made on the banks of the Seine. And this is how it was worked:

An office was hired in a good business street by the inventor of the trick, who assumed the title of somebody and company, chemical agents. Being convinced advocates of women's rights, they employed some members of the fair sex, who dressed in the height of fashion, used the most fashionable perfumes and then visited singly the best apothecaries' shop. One of these fair, false emissaries would stop her cab at the chemists, come in and, taking out her purse, ask for another bottle of Dr. Beaumont's elixir. "Dr. Beaumont's what?" said the young man behind the counter. "The elixir. Don't you know?" "No; I am afraid I never heard of it." "Oh, how tiresome, and my poor rheumatic husband will be so disappointed! Are you sure it was not here that our servant bought it before?" "No, madame; it was not here. Where is it sold wholesale?" "It is sold wholesale, I think"— And here the lady showed the ticket on the bottle. "It costs 8 francs."

That same day the chemist bought the elixir wholesale, laying in a fair stock of it, and meanwhile many of the confreres were doing likewise. But, as nobody called any more on the obliging chemists to buy the elixir, one of the curious confraternity analyzed this specific which was supposed to relieve rheumatics. He found that it was at least perfectly harmless, consisting of water colored by coffee grounds. The police were then let loose upon the ladies and the chemical agents, but they had all moved on, leaving no address. They are said to have netted about 10,000 francs by the trick.—London Telegraph.

THE BEDOUIN.

How This True Child of the Desert Goes Through Life.

How dreamily that Bedouin life, with its uneventfulness and its fatalism, fitted the time and the place! Here was a poor Arab who did not know how old he was, but he could look farther into heaven than I could. His mother had borne him while the caravan was on its way to Mecca. He had worked as a laborer on the Suez canal, and he had been a dog knacker in Constantinople before that. He had gone hungry in the wadies of Idumæa, and had run as a cameleer barefoot in the burning sands of Arabia Petræa. He had vegetated into manhood on the lower stratum of this strange oriental existence, content to believe that life was an unavoidable curse, with a drowsy intimation of eternity in it, always associated with the tinkling of bells, the rattle of castanets and the sweet smell of Beirut tobacco.

But he could see some things that were beyond my vision, and I wondered if this true child of the desert, born under indigo skies, of a race that had been guided since the days of Moses and Menephtah by the pillars of fire by night, had not preserved some powers of vision that were common to the primeval man. He never lost the true oriental disdain for enterprise and contemporaneous disturbance, and he made an engineer feel that his work, seen in the light of the unperturbed stars, was, after all, an impertinence to a true pariah.—"Ghosts In Jerusalem," by A. C. Wheeler, in Harper's Magazine.

Fooled by a Gas Machine.

A Brooklyn woman, whose gas bills were almost beyond computation and certainly beyond her purse, had one of the quarter in the slot machines put in her flat and anticipated great pleasure in keeping tab on her gas expenditure. These machines, by the way, are fed a quarter, and when the quarter's worth of gas is burned they shut off automatically.

Toward evening of the day in which the machine was installed she wended her way to the slot and deposited her money, but when an attempt was made to light the gas the machine would not register, and the evening light was shed out of lamps and candles. A wrathy note brought the company inspector to the scene the next morning, and he thoroughly vindicated the reputation of the contrivance when he unlocked it and drew from the inside three nickels and a dime.—New York Mail and Express.

The Wrong House.

A weather beaten member of the tired fraternity, who had lost a leg and had it replaced by a wooden substitute, stumped his way up the main street of a Lanarkshire village the other day and paused at the door of the first likely looking dwelling. Knocking at the door, which was opened by a brisk, businesslike housewife, the man began his stereotyped whine:

"If ye please, mum, I lost my leg"—

And before he could unfold another word of his tale the sharp retort came:

"Aweel, ye didna lose it here!"

And bang went the door in his face.—Liverpool Mercury.

Satisfied.

Opulent Father-in-law—What ails you, George? Since you have married you seem to have lost all your ambition.

George—Well, you see, sir, I reached the height of my ambition when I became your son-in-law.—Harlem Life.

Poetics Squelched.

Weary Watkins—Oh, that I had the wings of a bird!

Hungry Higgins—They's less meat on the wings than they is on any other piece.—Indianapolis Journal.

NORTH CAROLINA,
GUILFORD COUNTY.

By virtue of the powers conferred upon me in a certain order made by the Superior Court of Guilford county in a cause therein pending, entitled Mrs Nellie Albright, et al., ex parte, I will, as commissioner, sell at the court house door in Greensboro on the first Monday in March, (it being the sixth day) to the highest bidder at public auction, for cash, the following described land and premises, to-wit:

A house and lot on Cedar street, in the city of Greensboro and fronting on said street 62½ feet and running back about 300 feet and adjoining the lands of T. M. Pickard on the north, Bob Aiken on the south, J. W. Richardson on the west, and others, containing one-half of one acre, more or less. Upon which is situated a nice five room cottage, good well and a barn. It being the home place of Joe Albright, deceased.

This 28th day of January, 1899.
A. L. BROOKS, Commissioner.

Anchored.

"Up in my den," said a New Orleans bachelor, who lives in a couple of quaintly furnished rooms in a business block down town, "between the fireplace and the first bookcase on the left you will find two large slippers nailed to the wall, some four feet above the wainscoting. The heels of the slippers are quite close together, the toes spread slightly outward, and being made of brightly flowered drugget they look not unlike two enormous particolored beetles, clinging to the wall with folded wings. They are not, however, intended as ornaments, but have a very homely and practical purpose.

"When I retreat to my den at night, take down the book that suits my mood, get into a comfortable, ragged old jacket, turn the lamp just right and light my pipe—when I have performed these preliminary ceremonies, I place a chair directly in front of the slippers, insert my feet in their depths and lean back with the blissful consciousness that I can't possibly tip over and break my neck. I am anchored, so to speak, to the wall, and the light is so arranged as to make the position the best possible one for reading. My friends claim that the habit is pulling out my legs to an abnormal length, but I don't let that worry me. I'm thinking of having the scheme copyrighted."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Our One Good Point.

The English woman was arraigning America and everything American and to an American. "Your bed springs are uncomfortable," she said, "I never slept in a comfortable bed the whole time I was in the States. And your breakfasts—such great, overfed meals as they are! I don't see how you live, breakfasting as you do. As for your American voices, well, they go without saying, or rather they won't go with saying, but so many more eloquent than I have so often scored you upon that point I won't pretend to compete. Of all the many dreadful things about America, though, there's nothing so bad as your voices."

"Can't you think of somethng good about us?" came in a still, small voice from the American. "Haven't we a single redeeming quality?"

The English woman thought a bit. "Well, yes, you have one," she said in the tone of one who is making a great concession, "and that is your little elastic bands. They are so convenient, and they seem to be so plentiful. I never saw so many in all my life as I did in the States. I must confess that to my mind very many of your worst traits are more than made up for by your little elastic bands."—New York Sun.

Milton and Dante's Heaven.

Milton's heaven is earthly and obvious, though with none but celestial inhabitants; where eve and morn succeed each other and "grateful twilight" has its appointed hour; where the trees

Of life ambrosial fruitage bear, and vines
Yield nectar;

whose angels sleep "fanned with cool winds" in their celestial tabernacles and eat not seemingly "nor in mist," but "with keen dispatch of real hunger" verging on excess, from any injurious effects of which, as the poet takes pains to tell us, their spiritual nature avails to save them. Dante's heaven is no less definite and orderly to its minutest detail, but mystical and ethereal, even while peopled by the sons and daughters of earth, passing from glory to glory in ascending brightness, with divine visions that come and go like stars in a cloudy night and attended by the music of the spheres. These are the two extremes between which lesser poets paint and plant their Edens.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Consumption and Canaries.

We do not in this paragraph allude to the islands to which people fly for the cure of consumption, but to the little birds which sing songs to us in their captivity, and are, according to Dr. Tucker Wise, a cause from which consumption comes. This gentleman says that from his own observation he is of opinion that in many instances diseased cage birds, such as canaries, communicate tuberculosis to a serious extent among human beings. As about 400,000 canaries are reputed to be sold every year in the United Kingdom, and as it is stated that tuberculosis is one of the most common diseases of birds, it does not seem unlikely that the canary may have considerable influence in the distribution of tuberculous infection.—London Hospital.

Accepted the Amendment.

Joseph Jefferson, at a dinner in New York, said that when called upon for a curtain speech in New Haven Billy Florence once delivered himself thus: "It is here and to you, ladies and gentlemen, that I owe my present success in my profession. We knew each other when boys and girls. We played marbles together under the shadow of the old church, and now to receive this warm welcome from old friends—what can I say? Simply that I never can forget the people of Hartford." A man in the front row said, "This is New Haven, Mr. Florence." "I mean New Haven, of course," said Florence gravely.

Some Years After.

He—Do you remember the night I proposed to you?

She—Yes, dear.

"We sat for one hour, and you never opened your mouth."

"Yes, I remember, dear."

"Believe me, that was the happiest hour of my life."—Yonkers Statesman.

Egotistical.

"The trouble with him," said the young man who had been trying to fittingly describe an acquaintance, "is that when he dipped into the sea of knowledge he thought he brought up so much that the blamed thing went dry."—Chicago Post.

The Cruel Knife!

It is absolutely useless to expect a surgical operation to cure cancer, or any other blood disease. The cruelty of such treatment is illustrated in the alarming number of deaths which result from it. The disease is in the blood, and hence can not be cut out. Nine times out of ten the surgeon's knife only hastens death.

My son had a most malignant Cancer, for which the doctors said an operation was the only hope. The operation was a severe one, as it was necessary to cut down to the jawbone and scrape it. Before a great while the Cancer returned, and began to grow rapidly. We gave him many remedies without relief, and finally, upon the advice of a friend, decided to try S. S. S. (Swift's Specific), and with the second bottle he began to improve. After twenty bottles had been taken, the Cancer disappeared entirely, and he was cured. The cure was a permanent one, for he is now seventeen years old, and has never had a sign of the dreadful disease to return.

Absolutely the only hope for Cancer is Swift's Specific, as it is the only remedy which goes to the very bottom of the blood and forces out every trace of the disease. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no potash, mercury, or other mineral.

The Show Last Night.

The Murray-Hart company were greeted by a very small audience last night, though the show, for nothing but comedy, was a good one. Mr. Murray as Felascious Artfuleye, the woman hater, played his somewhat difficult part well and was the life of the show. Mr. Herbert A. Yost, as Paul Weldon, better demonstrated his ability as an actor, than on the night before. Tonight, The Slow Mr. Swift will be put on.

HARRY & BELK BROTHERS.

Style of Our New Dry Goods Firm—Goods Arriving.

Mr. D. R. Harry arrived last night from Charlotte and is today opening the stock of goods of Harry & Belk Brothers, a new and valuable addition to Greensboro's list of progressive mercantile firms. Mr. Harry will manage the business and tells a reporter that his firm will carry one of the largest stocks of general dry goods in the city. Messrs. Belk Brothers are among the king dry goods merchants of Charlotte, and the fact that they have combined interests with Mr. Harry is sufficient recommendation for him.

The new firm will be open for business in a few days, and judging from the number of heavy boxes carried into their store today, they will be able to show one of the largest stocks in the city.

Their store in the K. of P. building has recently been remodeled and is one of the best in the city. Watch for the new firm's announcement in the Telegram.
